

BioCannDo

The “Think Biobased challenge”

A competition open to all College or University students willing to design educational materials about the bioeconomy.

The best educational resources will be used as teaching materials for primary, secondary and vocational education students.

An international jury of bioeconomy experts will evaluate all entries. The most innovative teaching modules will be rewarded by the BioCannDo project with a money prize of €3,000 for each grade level.

The Think Biobased Challenge is open from November 2018 until 1 February 2019.

Visit the Think Biobased Challenge page or www.allthings.bio and join the Think Biobased Challenge!

It's all about being creative and getting youngsters to “think bio-based”!